MONMOUTH – The Henderson-Mercer-Warren Counties Regional Office of Education will host a digital library teacher training workshop on July 15 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This free workshop, presented by Tim Turner, education coordinator from The HistoryMakers, will provide teachers with hands-on training on how to effectively use The HistoryMakers Digital Library.

With over 400 hours of video oral history, The Historymakers Digital Library of African American history is a resource that will improve education in Illinois by helping Illinois teachers meet the legislated mandate for teaching African American history. The library has access to hours of video testimony, including that of President Barack Obama, as an Illinois State Senator. The archive can be used as a resource for all subjects.

To register for the workshop or for more information, contact the Henderson-Mercer-Warren Counties Regional Office of Education at (309) 734-6822.
